Clearly therefore the claim cannot stand: but the Investigating officer has not looked into the Rep^t of the Enam Enquiry & has merely based his decision on the Enam title-deed, which is silent on the points as the stone inscription of 1524-5, the grants of 1816, & the title-deed are all silent whether the items of Saine Rev: was or was not conceded to the Enamdar. It is too much to expect that such ancient sanads as of 1524 should make express alienation of particular items of revenue. Because the stone inscription is silent, it is possible that all the subsequent documents are also silent on the point, but as there is a body sheet in the village, it is necessary to look into the Enam Rep^t whether Sendi was enjoyed by the Enamdars at the time of the Enam settlement & whether it is recognized by that settlement. It is true that the Enamdars have failed to adduce proof of right; but all papers relating to the village were detained by the Patel. The present Patel is in service for only 3 years past & possibly proof of right may be found among papers left even in the previous Patel's

SIR,

I have the honor to submit herewith the records of enquiry relating to the claim of the Jodidars to the Excise Revenue from toddy of Inam Kaliyur village in the T. Narasipur taluk, Mysore District, together with the correspondence ending with the Mysore Deputy Commissioner's memo No.300, dated the 1st. December 1910, and to state as follows:-

2 The village in question appears to have been originally granted as an agrahar Sarvamanya by one of the kings of Vijayanagar in the year 1445 of Salivahana sakha corresponding to the English year 1523-24. An authenticated copy of the inscription said to be on a stone in the village produced by one K. Gopaliah one of the share-holder of the village, bears no mention either general or specific, alienating the revenue in question to the grantee. The tenure appears to have been subsequently changed and converted into a jodi being apportioned among 35 Brahmins and continued as such, by His Highness Sree Krishnaraj Wadeyar III - about the year 1816. No term either general or specific occur in the Niroop of His late Highness which would point an alienation of the right to the toddy revenue of the village. Significantly enough the Inam Settlement conducted in the year 1880 is also - silent on the point.

3 The examination of several documentary evidence produced by Vrittidars would not tend to disclose any point material in - favour of alienation of the item of revenue in question.

4 In short, the terms of the grant are not clear and the Inam Settlement is altogether silent. The Vrittidars themselves have admitted that their ancestors despised having any connection with so degrading a commodity as toddy. Moreover there has been no enjoyment of the right at any time by the Jodidars. In fact, their avowal that their ancestors scrupled to have any connection with the sale of toddy in the village militates against any presumption about enjoyment.

5 Under these circumstances, I concur with the Deputy - Commissioner's opinion that the Jodidars are not entitled to the Excise Revenue from toddy of the village in question as they have failed to establish their claim.

6 There is a shop in the village but no date trees; -- accordingly

accordingly, the existing shop has to be brought under the Govern -ment shops and treated as such.

Grounds of decision.

There is a toddy shop in the Village but no date trees.

2. The Village appears to have been originally granted as an Agrahara Sarvamanya by one of the Kings of Vijayanagar but latterly the tenure was converted into a jodi and continued as such by His Highness the late Sri Krishnaraja Wodayar Bahadur about the year 1816. No original documents bearing upon the original alienation or the subsequent conversion of the tenure referred to were made available for inspection during the enquiry. But a letter dated the 23rd March 1828 addressed by the then Jonydar of Ashtagram to the local revenue Officer contains references of a Sanad according to which the Brahman Co-sharers of the Village were to pay their allotted quota of the jodi and to continue in the enjoyment of their respective share free from molestation of any sort whatever. An attested copy of a Nirup issued by the late Maharaja nearly 13 years before the said letter, also testifies to the fact of the Village having been in the holding of Brahmins, apportioned into 35 Vrittis, or jodi tenure.

3. All the Vrittidars who were reported to be now in possession of the village were served with notices

Calling upon them to appear before the undersigned and to establish their right and title to the toddy Cocoa revenues of the Village. None but the four individuals named in Column 5 hereof evinced any interest in the enquiry. The patel of the village who is also a vrittidar was the most important of the witnesses examined in as much as he alone of all the holders of the village could bring forward any documentary evidence at all on the issues of the case.

4. It is almost always the case with jodi and Kayamgulta villages that the deeds of alienation contain no explicit statements of the rights alienated and notably of such a special right as that of the toddy Cocoa. If any claims have been found to be tenable at all their merits have solely consisted in unmistakable proofs of long enjoyment. The present village is no exception to the rule as regards the alienation of the right by a competent authority. The sanad terms are not clear on the point and the Inam Settlement (vide the Inam Title Deed, Document no 4 of Column 5) is altogether silent about it. As to enjoyment the Vrittidars know nothing of the kind. Indeed they have admitted that their ancestors despised having any connection with so degrading a Commodity as toddy. Naturally enough there has been absolutely no enjoyment of the right at any time by the jodidars.

5. Under such circumstances the prayer of the Vrittidars to allow them the right henceforward renders itself fertile in view of the laws now regulating such rights. The claim has thus to be rejected. The toddy shop working within the limits of the village since 1892-93 will no more be reckoned as an Inam shop but will be included in the list of Government shops

A. Seetharama
District Excise Officer
Comptd Mysore District.

The witnesses have no documentary evidence to prove their claims to the Excise Inam nor have they adduced any proof of their enjoyment as stated by the rules. Hence their claim has to be rejected
